And Then There Were Four

The family has done some more expanding. On July 25th, 2008, Barbara gave birth to a healthy baby girl named Bonnie Rose.

Bonnie Rose – July 25, 2008 - 19-¼ inches, 8lb. 7oz.

When asked how much he likes his new baby sister, Warren answers "Too much." He couldn't wait to hold little Bonnie. He said grandma had held her long enough.

Warren Can See

Early in the year, Warren went in to see the eye doctor and left with a heavy prescription for bifocals! Warren looks very distinguished with his new specs; well, some of the time. When he isn't being too much of a goof and when there aren't too many scrapes and bruises on his face from being a very active boy.

Nowthen! We're City Folk...

In July, the city of Nowthen officially took over all of Burns Township. So, without having to pack, load, move, unload, unpack, and rearrange everything, our address has changed to the city of Nowthen.

Arthur's Work?

The company for which Arthur worked split up his division. They kept part of it and sold the rest to a Tennessee based company. The new company determined that a majority of the corporate office staff was not needed. This included Arthur's position.

After a couple of months working on his résumé, Arthur got a call from the part of the company that had not been sold asking if he would be interested in doing some contract work. Arthur partnered with a long time friend who has a contracting company and is once again doing contract work.

Warren Turns Four

Warren turned four this year and was very excited to be able to pick out a special treat. I can't believe he ate the whole thing! But he did; he hasn't slept since!

Warren is into anything with wheels, insects, spiders, sunken ships (Titanic, Edmond Fitzgerald, City of Bangor, etc....)

He has even taken a fancy to playing outer space with his papa! They sit in the closet and call on the 2 way radios as to their actions. They have been to the moon several times, Io, Titan, and a cool sun as they didn't want to burn up. Warren has come up with a clever name for the spaceship, Orbit Moon.

Happy holidays to all!
